

Special Green Team Program

Learn how to compost

Tuesday, April 19, at 2pm

Composting is the process of helping turning "waste" into an earthy smelling material that's like a multivitamin for your garden soil. Compost helps improve your soil structure and water holding capacity, promotes soil fertility, stimulates healthy root development and aids in erosion control. Come join Belinda Chester, Master Gardener Coordinator for Rutgers Cooperative Extension of Atlantic County, as she discusses the basics to starting your own backyard compost bin.

We'll discuss the benefits of composting, dos and don'ts, methods, and suggested equipment.

LONGPORT
PUBLIC LIBRARY

RUTGERS
New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station

Please call Ricky Gerhardt at
(609) 487-7403 if you have any questions.